Diversity & Inclusion at Microsoft
Microsoft mission

Empower every person and every organization on the planet to achieve more
There are billions of people who want to achieve more, but have a different set of circumstances, abilities, and backgrounds that often lock them out of participating in the world that is happening around them.

We believe in the transformative power of diversity and inclusion. Only by actively engaging different perspectives can we challenge and stretch our thinking, enrich the experiences of our employees, and empower every person and every organization on the planet to achieve more.

We're accountable to our commitments

The demographics of our workforce will continue to serve as one measure of our progress toward a more diverse and inclusive Microsoft, and our contribution to the diversity of the tech industry.

There is another part of our journey that year-over-year data can't convey: the depth of our commitment and the range of programs in place to keep diversity and inclusion at the heart of the work we do.
